A PROFESSIONAL PATHWAY

The two-year course is designed to develop the creativity of the fashion designer, offering comprehensive training that integrates theory and practice.

The programme covers pattern making for both Haute Couture and the industrial sector. The three-dimensional teaching approach allows students to understand the volume of the body immediately, starting from the design phase.

Cultural preparation enriches creative ability, while the use of graphic software such as Photoshop, Illustrator and Procreate makes it possible to create graphically advanced garments and collections.

During the first year, with attendance of 20 hours per week, students build a solid technical and creative foundation. The second year, with attendance of 12-16 hours per week, focuses on Koefia couture pattern making and industrial pattern making (Istituto Secoli method).
