A PROFESSIONAL PATHWAY

The Fashion Designer & Fashion Project Designer course is intended for those who wish to study fashion drawing and design, using both traditional artistic techniques and digital tools.

Students learn the fundamentals of anatomical drawing and fashion illustration, which are essential for creating accurate representations of garments and outfits.

At the same time, the course introduces basic pattern making, enabling students to develop three-dimensional designs that take account of the shapes and volumes of the human body. This technical approach helps to translate creative ideas into feasible projects, with a clear understanding of how the garments will actually be constructed.

This integrated method trains Fashion Designers who are able to express their creativity by developing practical projects. The balance between creativity and feasibility provides comprehensive preparation for anyone aspiring to a career in the fashion world.
