

ONE-YEAR PROFESSIONAL COURSE

Koefia Diploma

Fashion Designer & Design Developer

Duration	ECTS	Language	Attendance
1 year	600	Italian	20hours per week

The Fashion Designer & Design Developer course is designed for those who wish to study fashion drawing and illustration using both traditional artistic techniques and digital tools. Students learn the fundamentals of anatomical drawing and fashion figure illustration, which are essential for creating accurate representations of garments and outfits. These skills are complemented by lessons in art history and the history of costume, providing the visual and stylistic knowledge required to conceive original and well-contextualised garments. The programme also provides comprehensive training in apparel graphics software.

At the same time, the course introduces students to basic pattern making, allowing them to develop a three-dimensional approach to design that takes the shapes and volumes of the human body into account. This technical approach helps students translate creative ideas into feasible projects, providing a clear understanding of how garments will actually be constructed.

This integrated method trains Fashion Designers who are able to express their creativity by developing concrete projects ready to move into production. The balance between creativity and feasibility provides comprehensive preparation for those aspiring to a career in the fashion industry.

Classes begin in October.
